RECEPTION IN THE HALL EXCELLENT

Arts, Law and Dentistry
Splendidly Entertained.

MANY SPEECHES.

To-night Men of Science and Medicine are Invited to Hall.

Last night some one hundred and twenty-five husky voices were heard trying to sing "Ain't We Got Fun" about 8 p.m. at Strathcona Hall, when the Freshman Reception for Arts, Law and Dentistry took place. The speakers were heartily applauded in a way that showed that their words were of good effect.

The first person to address the gathering of new students was Jack Copeland, who briefly spoke of the relation of the Students' Council to the rest of the University.

R. K. Hamilton, on behalf of the McGill A.A.A., mentioned how important a place athletics had in the all-round college education and what the men of McGill have to live up to in maintaining the standard of the Red and White teams.

Prof. W. D. Tait of Arts opened his address with several witty remarks which were much appreciated by his audience, while his words of solid advice made no less a hit. He pointed out that McGill has a history; one to be proud of and one which is being added to daily. He emphasized that a man must have confidence in himself if he intends to do anything in life. "The greatest thing in life," said the professor, is "to have faith."

"Boo" Anderson, for the McGill Rugby Club, put the case of the rugby before the newcomers. E. C. Amaron in his turn as president of the McGill S.C.A. and chairman of the evening outlined the general ideals of his organization, its dominion and world-wide federation in universities, closing with a welcome invitation to any who may care to rub shoulders with the S.C.A. irrespective of creed, nationality or race.

Prof. MacKay was the last speaker and his interesting remarks were well received by his enthusiastic hearers.

The refreshments served in plenty to the large number present were much to the satisfaction of all.

It was with regret that a report comes to the "Daily" of a few Sophs who, wishing to break the custom of their Alma Mater, tried to make an appearance at the Hall. Their efforts were fruitless.

Tonight freshmen in Medicine and Science are invited to an equally fine program at the hall at 8 p.m., when a professor from Medicine; Dean Adams from Science; Mr. Van Wagner on Athletics; a representative of the Students' Council, and Mr. J. G. McKay of the S.C.A. will give short talks to the men. The same orchestra which so excellently supplied the music last night will be on hand under "Lou Anderson."

ADDED INSULT.

Prof. of Sociology—Miss B—, I don't mind you looking at your watch while I am lecturing, but I do wish that you would not hold it to your ear all the time to find out if it has stopped."—Cornellian.

Since the World War is getting farther and farther behind us, and Fatty Arbuckle and the Ku Klux Klan may soon be satisfactorily disposed of, we may wonder how the newspapers will fill their columns. Of course, radio exchange with Mars is a possibility. Daily Iowan.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF MANDOLIN CLUB

Last evening the Mandolin Club held its first practice of the season. Under the able direction of Mr. Peate the various units were soon welded into harmony. A number of new members came out for the first time and much enthusiasm was shown. It is hoped that this will continue throughout the year.

The music in use is a combination of regular mandolin music with popular hits to balance. A number of engagements are already in sight. All mandolin players, especially first year men, are urged to attend the next practice, Tuesday, the 11th, at 7.15 at Peate's Studio, St. Catherine street. No great experience in mandolin playing is necessary in order to join the club.

PLANS FOR THE "FETE DE NUIT" PROGRESSING

The plans for the students' "Fete de Nuit" in connection with the centenary celebration are rapidly progressing and an interesting evening is promised. Each of the faculties is putting on a separate display and the whole is expected to make a very amusing and interesting scene.

At the present time the plans have not progressed to a sufficient extent to allow a complete program to be announced to the students but this will be done within the next few days. The faculties will most likely put on exhibitions that are reminiscent of the traditions connected with the past years and the graduates should see scenes that will bring back amusing memories.

NOTABLES IN ENGLAND GAVE BIG SEND-OFF

Banquet Tendered to Prof.
Basil Williams.

TREVELYAN SPOKE.

Notable Acquisition to the Department of English.

According to advices received at McGill from London Professor Basil Williams, the new Head of the History Department, as the guest of honour at a banquet given by a large and representative number of men of note in historical and literary England, before the departure for Montreal.

One of the greatest of living English historians, C. M. Trevelyan, whose work, which has been crowned by the bestowal of the Order of Merit, bids fair to continue unimpaired the historical traditions of the family of his grand-uncle. Thomas Babington Macaulay, delivered an address in which the shades of the elder Pitt and of Cecil Rhodes bade good-speed to their biographer on his approaching journey across the seas to take up his work at McGill.

The world of higher journalism was represented by such men as Fabian Ware, the editor of the Morning Post, and Sir Valentine Chirol of the Times. Professor Basil Williams' historical achievement is based upon his two very well-known biographies of Chatham, the man who won Canada for the Empire, and of Cecil Rhodes, the leading figure in the movement for British expansion on the African continent. For the larger work on Rhodes he was especially suited as, following on his military service in the South African War, he spent several years in the country where the master-imperialist achieved such fame.

A story dealing with the unacademic of his career had it that when Professor Williams was in South Africa he acted as chief guide to a society of "Sunday Tramps," an organization to which Lord Haldane and Lord Bryce both belonged in days gone by.

The chequered nature of Professor Basil Williams' career is a new departure from the usual quiet life of the historical scholar, in every instance it appears to have been of inestimable value to him in his work later on. The hearty send-off accorded him by his English friends and colleagues on the other side of the water would seem to speak well for the future of a department already popular to the student-body of the Faculty of Arts.

ARTS UNDERGRAD.

There will be a special meeting of the Arts Undergrad. Society in room No. 5 at 12 o'clock today to discuss certain questions relating to the Arts share of the Undergraduate Fete-de-nuit. The executive expect the men of the three senior years especially to help with this very important business by turning out en masse.

ROOTERS

To-day, at ten minutes after five, every student in the University who is not engaged in practicing for one of the teams up at the stadium, is expected at the first rooters practice at Strathcona Hall. "Teedles" Thompson will take charge of the proceedings, and, with Joe Wain as first lieutenant in getting the boys in action, the roof on the building should quiver from the shouts.

It is doubtful if the big hall will be able to accommodate the crowd which is expected to turn out, but if it does not, a larger place will be found for the next workout. Thompson declares that the term "Thundering Thousand," which was given to his band of warriors last year, will be inadequate this fall, inasmuch as he expects much more than a thousand students out to back up the team.

The new stand on the south side of the stadium will give the rooters the choicest seats for the games at only a nominal price. Only the men who are turning out regularly for the rooters' practice will be entitled to these seats.

Fixing the hour of the meeting at 5.10 o'clock allows everyone plenty of time to get down after the lecture at five o'clock, and every man who can possibly do so is expected to turn out.

A GOOD MOVE.

The decision of the Sophomore years to conduct the initiation of the Freshmen by having them wear conspicuous badges seems to be a very wise one. The time is past when the citizens can be disturbed nightly by crowds of unruly students tearing through the streets, doing damage to property and causing inconvenience to the public.

There is no reason why initiation of the newcomers to the college should be abandoned, as a matter of fact, there are many good reasons why it should be continued, but there is a proper method of carrying out an initiation just as there is a proper way to carry out any other college activity.

In former years, the greatest amount of trouble arose from unauthorized bands from the two first years, who had an unpleasant habit of staging miniature rushes on the spur of the moment. The organized initiations under the authority of the class officers seldom led to any trouble. There is still the same possibility of having inconvenience caused by the thoughtless students, but it is to be hoped that the classes will take measure to prevent it.

THE SPIRIT OF THE ROOTERS.

The football and track teams have been showing a spirit, unusual even for McGill, in turning out and working as they never worked before in order to get in condition for the Intercollegiate season which is about to open. The coaches of the candidates for the positions on the two teams have been unsparing in their efforts to show the men how to do their utmost in the competition against the teams representative of the other universities.

It only remains for the students to do their part in supporting the athletes who are doing their best for the college. Even though the teams may be trained and coached as never before, they would not be able to do their best unless they are instilled with the spirit which enables them to carry on after any ordinary aggregation of athletes would have been defeated.

This spirit cannot be instilled into them by the coaches or trainers, but must come from the students. Every man and woman attending the college can take a great part in the contests, which are starting very soon, by doing all that is possible to support the play-

The medium through which the students are allowed to take part in the battles on the football field and track is the Rooters' Club. Anyone who joins in the practices, which are held under the leadership to conduct the organized cheering at the games, is doing nothing to help the teams do their best, just as every player is doing so by working his hardest in a track or football uniform. While it is not possible for everyone to win a place among those chosen to represent McGill in the games, it is the duty of the remaining students to do everything possible to help the selected few to do their best, whether they win or lose.

The first practice for the organized rooters is taking place this afternoon, and it is to be hoped that they will show the same spirit the teams by turning out in record numbers and cheering as they ever cheered before.

OFFICERS ELECTED IN ARTS '23.

The annual meeting of the class of Arts '23 was held yesterday afternoon when the election of officers took place. The following were elected:
President E. C. Amarion.
Vice-Pres. B. Puddicombe.
Sec-treas. S. Read.

Exercise careful selection in the matter of a cap. You must have one of the well-dressed freshman will wear a cap this year. Bald-headed freshmen may wear ear-muffs by special permission.

The 24 haberdashers are presenting an unusually attractive line of socks this year. There are blacks and greens and then again there are greens and blacks. Silk hosiery may be worn only in chapel. Freshmen possessing especially dainty calves will be allowed to roll their socks on warm afternoons. In case a sophomore requests you to don your new hosiery at once, the Health Board has ordered all such changes be made in a telephone booth.

Do not be embarrassed if a little hayseed falls out when your cuffs are turned down. Some of our most promising students have come up from the sticks. If any of your clothing is torn by rude sophomores, send the bill to the 24 Treasurer.

When your wardrobe is complete, put your cap on at a rakish angle and saunter around the Campus at your leisure. Do not run if a strange man starts to chase you, as he is probably only fraternity ivory scout who wants to drag you out to lunch.

After taking the psychological test go to your room and lie down for three hours. If you feel the need of strong drink, remember the poor wretches who took the Edison memory tests and control yourself.

After you have done everything else, register. Take two or three magazines with you in case the clerks are all out to lunch. Don't be worried if there is a large crowd at the window; your green card entitles you to a place at the head of the line. If you fail to register, in dent is needed.

SCIENCE MEN HAD A FINE TURNOUT

Last night the Science Undergraduate Society held their first meeting of the season, which was well attended. The treasurer gave his report, and handed over the funds. Roy Foss acted as chairman of the meeting. The principal subject under discussion was the part that science should take in the "Fete de Nuit." This will be the big night for the students, and by all accounts the Science men will be well and ably represented. Science is one of the largest faculties in the University, and it is rumored that their event will be one of the largest on the programme. Every year, from 1821 to 1921 will be represented in some form with typical costumes and banner for the year. This will surely present one of the most varied and picturesque events on the programme. In addition to this it was suggested that each branch of the Science Faculty should have a float for their branch of engineering.

It was thought that some permanent form of recognition should be introduced for freshmen of Science. The senior years were asked if they would give their support to some such project, and agreed to do so if some suitable mark of distinction was shown.

THE PLEASURES OF MOTORING

Poets have written of the joys of motoring, but only with the same general interest with which they have dilated on the appalling modernness of subway cars and skyscrapers. Sinclair Lewis has brought forth again the automobile novel, but as a general rule, motoring, whether for pleasure or no, is done according to that almost classic axiom of M. Midshipman Easy, "Business before pleasure."

One pursues route A, which has red markers, or route B, which has blue, and they probably both offer to the eye of the speeding beholder, an endless vista of tea-houses, pseudo-country inns, and purveyors of fresh eggs and vegetables. Here also, come other restless citizens, and soon the highway is merely a roaring ribbon of motor cars. True, there is excellent scenery along some famous highways; there is better along the lesser known roads that are as yet quite commercially undeveloped.

There are many stand and conscientious citizens to whom the known trails are the good trails. They have excellent precedent in Francis Parkman, who characterized the great westward movement of nineteenth century America as "a strange migration," and went on to say that its motive "was a forlorn hope of a better condition of life." Yet Parkman was wrong, and the pioneers were right.

To motor for business, one adheres to the straight roads and smooth. For pleasure, the majority of citizens do likewise. Yet they miss much. For example, there is, do you object to an endless vista of cars before you, and an even more endless vista behind, a sort of "inside passage" down the south shore of Massachusetts that will take you from Hingham to Marsfield with promptness and dispatch.

The road is good. Pleasant fields stretch on either side. Sleepy villages loom up here and there, green-treed and leafy-laned infinitely more picturesque than anything the shore roads have to offer. Next come woods with arching tree branches that make the road a mirror of dappled light and shadow; steep ravines where violets flaunt, undisturbed and unnoticed, coverts from out which a rabbit may pop, thickets where the quail nest, comfortably rickety old wooden bridges and shadowy streams, roadside shrubs that bubble merrily on hot days. Here you may see a farmer plowing silhouetted against the clear sky, and here a small boy in ragged trousers and shirt will be bringing home the cows, through the pleasant dusk of evening.

But it is not only in Massachusetts that the dim trails are the most interesting. In Tennessee, an unheralded and unnamed road winds back and forth before that wall of purple that is the Blue Ridge, and here you may experience all the thrills of Dan'l Boone and his fellow adventurers. "Ovah yondah," as southern residence will teach you to say, the far-flung peaks of the Great Smokies will shoulder the sapphire sky, mountaineers on sleepy ponies will be your road companions, going to mill with a "poke" of meal, or returning from town with "store goods." Beside you morning with glories will riot over stone wall and stubble, and the only motor car you may see will be the rattletap roadster belonging to the financial genius of the village a thousand feet below.

Even in Illinois, where red gumbo mud riots, if you do but forswear guide-books and road maps, you will find quiet trails beside the mighty Mississippi, where steamboats hoot down river, and river landings present unrivaled pictures of the gayly dressed colored population, "waitin' for the packet."

STUDENTS WANTED FOR NEWSPAPER WORK

A number of candidates are required to try out for positions on the staff of the McGill Daily. Any student may join the staff, experience being entirely unnecessary, and will be given every opportunity to do newspaper work of every description. The present members of the staff will give a part of their time to the work of instructing newcomers.

After about one month, the permanent staff will be chosen from the candidates according to their ability to cover assignments. Men wishing to join the staff may apply at the office of the McGill Daily, in the basement of the Union, between the hours of 1.30 and 2 p.m., or after 7.30 o'clock any evening this week. The desk porter in the Union will direct new men to the office.

"It sure is good to see the boys back again!" remarked the Amsterdam Avenue storekeeper as he jacked his prices to see the boys back again! said up fifty per cent. trails beside the mighty Mississippi, where steamboats hoot down river, and river landings present unrivaled pictures of the gayly dressed colored population, "waitin' for the packet."

Such motoring comes under the head of a fine art. But it must not be indulged in rashly. Much gasoline, extra tires and, above all, food, are requisite, for pioneers know not what the next turning may bring forth.

DETAILS OF THE NEW SONG BOOK

1921 Edition to Contain Noted War-songs.

It may not be known to everyone that the Students' Council has undertaken the publication of an up-to-date edition of McGill songs. A special Committee has been working on the proposition all through the summer, and as a result of their efforts the new McGill Song-Book will be placed on sale on the tenth of this month.

There are in all about a hundred songs. The great majority of these are directly connected with the undergraduate life of this University, the remainder consisting of a judicious selection of those songs which would demand inclusion in any college song-book. In addition place has been found for many of the war-songs and trench-ditties sung by the McGill men overseas, and to comply with a request made at the last meeting of the Student's Society "Madoiselle of Armentieres" and some of her fellows have been included therein.

The songs will cover about a two hundred pages of good serviceable paper, and the book is bound in hard boards with a design in red and white on the cover. Notwithstanding the present-day high cost of publishing the book will be placed on sale at the cost price of $1.50 per copy.

Sometimes, in the day's news, there is a certain element of "human interest" even in things inanimate. Two items in to-day's news could be treated by the various editorial departments according to their own peculiar styles with headings to range from the pathetic to the ridiculous; from "Empress on Her Last Legs" to what appears at first glance to be a world-wide political situation: "Prinz Frederick Wilhelm becomes the Empress of India!"

Soon after the start of the Great War the Maharajah of Gwalior purchased from the Canadian Pacific the "Empress of India" which was presented to the British government and renamed the "Loyalty." It was outfitted as one of the most perfectly equipped hospital ships in service, and sailed from the Persian Gulf on November 29th, 1914. She performed notable and heroic service for four years with a record of voyages on which over 15,000 patients of all nationalities were safely transported. She was then turned over to an Indian company to be operated but owing to various difficulties and delays she has been laid up in the harbor at Bombay. Now, still idle at that port, she faces a rather uncertain future, and it is reported that this one-time Empress of the Pacific, sister ship to the Empress of Japan, may never again be used for passenger service, and that the necessary government certificate to carry passengers cannot be secured.

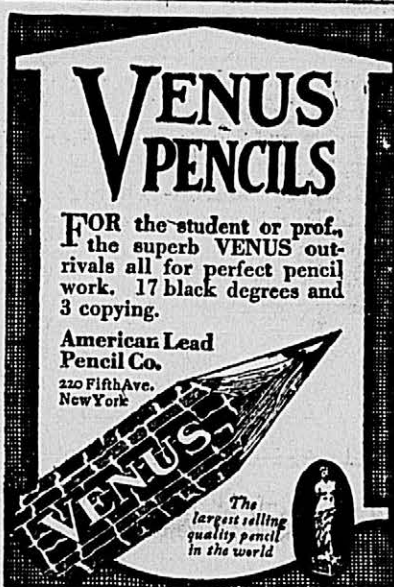

But the name long-famous on the Pacific will not pass from marine history as announcement is made that the Canadian Pacific has bestowed the name of the "Empress of India" upon the former German liner, the Prinz Frederick Wilhelm. It was originally planned to name this ship the "Empress of China," but this name has now been given to the C. P. R.'s latest acquisition, the ex-German "Tirpitz." This new "Empress of India" has been chartered from the C. P. R. by the Cunard Company for several trips on its Atlantic service to replace the "Mauretania" while the latter is being repaired, following a recent fire.

SUCCESSFUL CONFERENCE AT MUSKOKA

Over Two Hundred Delegates Were Present.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Discussed Many Problems in Industry, Education and Missions.

The Student Christian Movement Conference held at Elgin House, Muskoka, Sept. 19th to 26th, has proved itself the most successful of any yet undertaken by the movement. This year a joint conference of both men and women was tried for the first time. The total number of delegates was well over two hundred, including representatives from both eastern and western Canada, as well as from the United States.

The day's programme began with a half-hour's intercession in the chapel. This was followed by Bible study groups. These groups were ably led by Dr. Gifford, Dr. Sharman, Prof. Todd, Prof. Hooke, Miss Helen Nichol, Mr. Ketchum and others.

But perhaps that which interested the Conference most was the discussion of problems facing Canada in Industry, Education and Missions. In the group on industrial and social problems, Mr. Tracey, of the British Labor Party, Mr. Staples, of the U. F. O., Mr. Alderson, of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and Dr. Thomas, of the Methodist Social Service Department, gave their views on these absorbing and vital questions.

Dr. Sandiford, of the Ontario College of Education, presented three most illuminating addresses on the purpose and problems of our educational system. Dr. Hayward, of the Religious Education Council of Canada, completed the programme of the educational group. He dealt principally on the education of boys and girls, and on religious education in the churches under C. G. I. T., and C.S.E.T. programmes.

Most interesting problems were discussed in the missionary group. Miss Dorothy Kilpatrick, of India, and Mr. Murray Brooks, of the McGill Mission in Ceylon, both presented very inspiring addresses.

The evening meetings had as their themes Faith, Love, Prayer and Will. The meetings were addressed by Miss Cartwright, of St. Hilda's; Miss Kilpatrick, Dean Bosworth, of Oberlin, Dr. Ritchie, of Montreal, Dr. Sharman, and Prof. Hooke. It is impossible to over-estimate the intense value of these addresses to students, presenting, as they do, many new aspects of life.

One hour each day was set apart for a discussion of S. C. M. problems. The interchange of ideas between the various colleges proved most beneficial.

But one must not conclude that Conference is just a series of meetings and discussions. Much credit is due to the Athletic Committee, who so efficiently provided for the physical side of Conference. Tennis and indoor baseball tournaments were played between the colleges. One afternoon was devoted to aquatic sports, and another to "Stunts."

In short, Conference was a community where good fellowship prevailed in the search for the fullest and best life. One hopes that each year more and more students will embrace the exceptional opportunities offered by Conference.

JUNIORS TO PLAY THEIR FIRST GAME

McGill to Meet Loyola This Afternoon.

HALF-PAST TWO.

The honor of opening the Football season goes to the Juniors who make their bow this afternoon when they hook up with the representatives of Loyola College. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 and will comprise four quarters of ten minutes each thus leaving the field free for the Shagmen at the regular practice hour. The Juniors will present an unusually strong line-up for the opening game as many of the men chosen for tomorrow's encounter will be seen on the second squad later in the season when the Intermediate schedule opens. The exact line-up of the team is not known and probably will not be announced until just before the game. The Red and White representatives should have very much trouble in disposing of the West End lads as the Loyola team has been strong in recent years and even weaker this season as a result of poor condition and not sufficient coaching.

Immediately after the Junior fixture the M. A. A. A. will be entertained by the senior team when Shag will try new trick plays on the dog in order to ascertain whether or not they will prove poisonous enough for our future guests from Queens and Varsity. Judging from the manner in which the different formations worked yesterday afternoon the Peel street aggregation should be in for a dizzy afternoon. It is to be hoped that they will benefit not a little from the practice because if there ever was a team that needed improvement it is certainly the Winged Wheel twelve.

Our Senior team seems to be on the way to proper shape and by the time the Varsity game arrives should be showing the real strength and smoothness of the typical Shaughnessy machine. Shag himself seems to be well satisfied with the progress the team is making and his only worry is that some man may sustain an injury which might keep him out of the first match with Toronto. The coach is pursuing a most commendable policy this year by making every man on the squad into the best condition for a strenuous campaign. Last year he was so afraid of some of his stars disabled that he thought of the fact that in order to avoid injury in the games his players had to be as hard as nails and as a result some men who were indispensable to the team were playing the greater part of the games on their nerve alone.

The coach himself was the first to realize this and determined to make a radical change in his system this season. The effects of his new method is demonstrated by the fact that he has under him early in the season the best conditioned bunch of players he has ever had. This wing since coming to McGill. The team will be turned this week-end to Kingston where Queens and Shag will meet in the opening of the Intermediate series. For many years the Red and White have been the weak sister in the team but this season have gathered together a team that promises to make a lively opposition and if their full team is available for Saturday's encounter then perhaps the Presbyterians will discover the Varsity scalps hanging to their belts when the sun sinks on Saturday evening. The back field which Queens will present for the first fixture is worthy of more than passing notice—the acquisition of Leadley, the best all around back in the Big Four last year was a ten strike and with McKelvey, a great player, working beside him he should scintillate even more brilliantly than last year. It is no secret that McGill's ancient supporter of the Red and White would like to see Queens win and every McGill supporter of the Red and White will be pulling for a Kingston victory.

Tomorrow's workout against M. A. A. A. will be held behind closed doors and only a special personages will be admitted to the Stadium. The idea of this is that Shag is anything but anxious to show his plays to the general public before the Varsity game. A list has been given to the door keeper at the grounds and only the persons whose names appear on the list will be admitted so that the railbirds be only wasting their time tomorrow afternoon.

McGILL HARRIERS ARE WORKING HARD

Good Chance for New Men to Make Team.

The McGill Harriers are hard at work in their attempt to get the Intercollegiate Harrier Championship at Kingston on November 4th. So far Varsity and the other universities are hard at work training also. The new material trying out at the Stadium is a mark of much satisfaction to McGill people but there is much room for new men. This year we have lost "Bill Antliff," while it is uncertain whether other members of last year's team will be on hand to help out. The call to the average McGill student is made in an urgent way this fall for support to their college.

The work, at present is easy and the season as yet early. The opportunity to win a place in the Inter-Faculty run of October 17 is open to all; while there is a good chance for new men to obtain a place on the McGill team to enter in the "Dunlop Road Race" to be held in Montreal on October 29th, and also in the regular fall meet at Kingston on the 4th.

The next meeting is this afternoon at 5 p.m. from the Stadium. Sleeveless, "shorts" and running shoes are all that are necessary. All are equally asked to try out.

Never chase after a woman or a street car. There will be another along in a minute or two. They don't come so often after midnight but they go faster.

TO SURVEY YALE'S PROSPECTS

With seven veteran oarsmen to start with Yale's prospects on the water the coming year will be surveyed at a meeting tonight when crew candidates will be called out. Capt. Langhorne Gibson will preside and Coach P. J. Cordery will speak. The coaching staff the coming year will consist of Coach Cordery, assisted by his brother George, who is to look after freshman candidates, and Bert Lee, who will direct the class crews. For the early training this fall the "Y" veterans will act as assistant instructors in the rudimentary drilling and selection of class crews. The first row will be on the Quinipiac river next Wednesday.

BACK THEM.

The teams will do their best for McGill. Let the students do their best for the teams.

FIRST RUGGER PRACTICE HELD

Squad Showed Good Speed and Tackling Ability.

About thirty men turned out for the first practice of the English rugby squad on the old campus yesterday. From this squad two teams were selected and a strenuous practice game was played. Many of the men showed really splendid form and among those who did some especially fine work were those men who have come to McGill for the first time.

With such a larger squad of men out, all of whom are showing good form there is sure to be some very keen competition for positions on the first team. The three quarters men out show considerable speed and tackling ability, qualities which are very essential for a fast "three line". The forwards are a likely crowd and when in condition will make a formidable pack for their opponents.

English rugby is becoming a very popular game and with such a good squad turning out McGill should be able to turn out a splendid first team.

Practices are being held every afternoon this week and men expected to play on one of Saturday's teams are urged to get into training at once. Players may trip at Molson Hall gym and turn out on the old campus at 3:30 P.M. Everybody turn out and make prospects for the Toronto game brighter still.

OPENING OF NEW QUEENS GRIDIRON

Richardson Stadium to be Opened Saturday.

FINE ATTENDANCE.

Every Facility Afforded to Both Players and Spectators.

Queen's are to have a modern football stadium at last. This structure, work on which is even now being rushed to completion, is to be opened next Saturday, when the first game of the C.I.R.F.U. is scheduled to be played. This is the game between Queen's and Varsity. It possesses every modern appurtenance of a stadium, and the men of Queen's as also the citizens of the Limestone City, may well be proud of it. Its erection is almost entirely due to the liberality of the brother of the late Capt. George Richardson, a prominent citizen of Kingston, and in whose memory the stadium is being erected.

No detail of this fine arena has been neglected. The field itself, the seating accommodation, the dressing rooms, etc., have all been planned with the utmost care and forethought, and the whole general layout will present ample cause for admiration. Prof. Lindsay Malcolm, of Queen's, is the man to whom all credit must go for the construction of the bowl; he not only designed the structure, but has been personally superintending the erection of it. The outstanding features of the structure present many points of interest and it may not be amiss to describe them.

The provisions for the spectators have no room for criticism. The grand-stand, constructed entirely of concrete, will provide seating capacity for 2,000 fans. It is built somewhat on the pattern of the Varsity Stadium at Toronto, and will have a large roof, providing ample covering for spectators. It has a steel framework, and the covering itself will be of wood and iron. The girders are so placed so as to in no way impede the view of the watchers at a game. Across from the grand-stand have been built commodious bleachers, seating 1,500 people, thus making the entire capacity of the stadium 3,500. These bleachers have an entrance at each end, and these are quite distinct from those to the stand, which open onto another street altogether. One commendable feature is that the field has been so built as to do away with standing on the side lines, a continual source of annoyance to all right-minded fans.

The facilities afforded the teams, home and visiting, are almost unlimited. There are separate quarters for the visiting team, and additional ones for the track teams. The dressing rooms are large and bright, and well ventilated. There are showers, dryers, a large sweating room, and other conveniences. From the dressing rooms are large and bright, and well the gridiron itself. The heating will leave no cause for complaint, for there is a large furnace room in the grand-stand with all the latest appliances.

The field itself, although it will take two or three years to look really proper, is yet in first-class condition, and it will not take long to harden up. It presents a fine view from the grandstand, from which every part of the grid can be seen plainly. The track is also in excellent shape, and should provide an estimable site for the track meet, which will be held in Kingston this year. It is a cinder track of regulation quarter-mile length, and ten feet in width.

In order to forever perpetuate the name of Capt. Richardson, two towers have been erected at each rear corner of the grand-stand, and on each of these will be placed a memorial tablet. One of these was presented by the Athletic Board of Queen's, and the other by friends of Capt. Richardson.

HURRY UP.

If you intend to take her to the Varsity game a little speed is necessary in buying the tickets. They're nearly all gone.

TRACK CANDIDATES TO HEAR VAN WAGNER

All the men who are turning out for track work will meet in the McGill Union Thursday evening at 6.15 o'clock, when Coach Van Wagner will give them a short talk on the proper method of training. Just at present, the large number of students who are candidates for the track team makes it almost impossible for the coach to give each one the necessary attention up at the track.

Although work on the track does a great amount to help the men who are turning out, it is practically useless unless the work is done in the proper way. In addition, the track mentor will have a few words to say about the proper method of training when the runners are away from the stadium.

The meeting is meant for every man who has been turning out. Both the members of last year's team and the newcomers will be on hand to listen. The meeting will be very short and will enable everyone to get away in plenty of time for dinner.

WATER POLO TO COMMENCE SOON

This year promises to be a good one for Water Polo. Most of the members of last year's Senior Championship team are back again for another session, with the exception of Curly Walters, who graduated last year. E. Vernot will be in charge again, and his ability to produce a winning team has been well shown.

With a big registration in the first car, some good material should be wearied, and there is plenty of opportunity for new men to show what they can do. There is to be a preliminary meeting of the Swimming and Polo Club to-night in the Union and as many new men as possible are wanted to turn out.

The practices are held in the Central Y. M. C. A., tank which is regulation length for Intercollegiate Water Polo.

The first game of the season is not far off. It will be played on October 19th, McGill, vs La Salle.

Boston Massachusetts —Intercollegiate football in the United States is now on in full force and practically every big college in the country has had at least one test while some of them have played two. The Western Conference started its full schedule last Saturday and the work of the terms will be reviewed in a later article.

In the eastern section of the country all of the big teams were in action and there was one result which may be classed as a decided upset and that was the victory secured by Lafayette College over the University of Pittsburgh by a score of 6 to 0. It was the first time in two years that the Panthers had been defeated.

Another surprise was sprung by New Hampshire State College when it defeated West Point, in the second game of a double-header played by the Cadets, by a score of 10 to 7. The first West Point team had previously defeated Springfield Training School by a score of 28 to 6.

Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Cornell all won their games, with the Crimson being hard pressed to win from Holy Cross by a score of 3 to 0. This was exactly the same result as in 1920, and it is interesting to note that C. C. Buel '23, was the man who made the field goal for Harvard each year. Holy Cross had three good chances to score from field goals but failed each time.

University of Vermont gave Yale a hard battle during the first half, but the Eli attack proved too strong in the second half and the Blue scored two touchdowns and two goals for a total of 14 points, while Vermont was held scoreless.

RIGHT FORMATION

A maid and long-haired youth were lingering rather late.

They talked of goals and touchdowns, but found it rather tame.

Quoth he, "It's mighty funny if I don't arrange a match."

So he lined the couple up, and made them toe the scratch.

The youth was growing nervous 'neath the weight of new-found bliss

He charged upon the center, he tackled left and right,

And the way they held that chair for downs was simply out of sight.

He tried an osculation, just an amateur affair,

But lost in on a fumble and instead it struck the air.

Then as he landed on his ear, he heard the maiden say,

KANSAS HAS NEW FOOTBALL COACH

George Clark Has Charge of Candidates

Football prospects at the University of Kansas this year are not as bright as in former years. About 40 candidates reported to George Clark, head coach, at the first official practice. Of this number only 10 are letter men, and only two of these have had more than one year's experience in Missouri Valley Conference competition. Capt. R. P. Jones, '22, guard, is a veteran of two seasons' service, and H. L. Reedy, '22, guard, who has not played on the varsity since 1916, is a veteran linesman and weighs 215 pounds. Other letter men who played some last year and are expected to develop into valuable material this year are: E. J. Allison, '23, halfback, a good line plunger, who is hard to stop; C. A. McAdams, '23, halfback and fullback, a good punter; A. J. McDonald, '23, end, who played in almost all the games last year; H. A. Ivy, '23, end, who played with the Great Lakes Naval Training Station when they won the service championship of the United States; S. E. Higgins, '23, tackle; E. A. Sandefur, '22, tackle; S. G. Saunders, '22, centre; George Hale, '23, centre.

In addition to these letter men several of last year's freshman squad are to be depended upon, including Dee Mifflin, '24, fullback, and a good kicker; M. F. Griffin, '24, halfback; J. C. Lomborg, '24, halfback; Max Kreuger, '24, quarterback; and C. A. Black, '24, end.

The 1921 Kansas football team is under the leadership of a new coach, George Clark, popular assistant coach of the 1916 Kansas squad and star halfback on the University of Illinois team for two years. Clark graduated from the Illinois institution in 1916, after making a name for himself in "Big Ten" circles playing halfback. He enlisted at the outbreak of the war and played football on the noted 89th division team, champions of the American Expeditionary force.

In 1919 he went back to Illinois to act as assistant coach under R. C. Zuppke. Later in the academic year he was asst. coach of basketball, and head coach of baseball. From Illinois Clark went to the Michigan Agricultural College, where he was head football coach. The new coach refuses to make any predictions about the prospects for Kansas for the coming season. K. A. Schladerman, freshman coach last year, and head track coach, will assist Clark, who has charge of the line.

LECTURES ON SOCIAL DISEASES

At the McGill Union Next Friday Night at 5 P.M.

Considerable interest has been aroused by the statement that a moving picture demonstration and lecture on Social Diseases is to take place at the McGill Union on Friday next October 7th at 5 p.m.

Recent investigations have brought to light the fact that the prevalence of venereal disease is even more alarming than was generally understood. The danger having been realized, public authorities, animated by the praiseworthy desire to protect the population, have energetically set themselves to work and have organized campaigns against the scourge.

A Congress of Hygienists from all over the country was convened at Ottawa under the auspices of the Federal Government and there was revealed the ravages exercised by these diseases amongst our population and the urgent necessity of warring against them was emphasized. By unanimous agreement the members passed a resolution that immediate action be taken to check the encroaching evil.

The Government immediately offered a subsidy to the Provinces in order that they might institute, without delay, anti-venereal campaigns. In Quebec, the Superior Board of Health as charged with the responsibility of carrying on this campaign.

Laboratories, containing the most up-to-date bacteriological and serological apparatus have been established from which diagnoses and special reports can be secured at a minimum cost. Dispensaries where the needy can be gratuitously treated have also been established in many centers.

Dr John A. Hutchison and Dr H. A. Desloges of the Provincial Board of Health, with Drs. F. S. Patch and H. M. Little of the University Staff, will be the speakers, while Sir Arthur Currie has kindly consented to occupy the Chair.

With set teeth she tried another; this time succeeded fine,
For he scored an easy touchdown on the crimson two-inch line.
And as they sat there by the grate, communing soul to soul,
The parlor door swung open and Father Kicked the Goal.
